SHANSI ARMY HELD AT PEKIN GATES

EIGHTY THOUSAND TROOPS SURROUNDED AND CAPTURED

Northern Army Maneuvered and Outflanked the Southern Celestials, Rounded Them Up and a Stampede Ensued—Biggest Battle on Chinese Soil This Year—Pekin Now Safe—British Re-Occupy Hankow, Considered One of the Most Valuable Commercial Centers in the Flowery Empire.

The main Shansi armies which have been driving at Peking have been crushed, but scattered bands still are in the field, a few within 20 miles of Peking, with northern forces close at their heels, a spokesman for the northern alliance started Friday.

This spokesman declared that the northerners deliberately drew the main Shansi army of 80,000 men almost to Paotingfu, 85 miles southwest of Peking, and then sent the northern army by way of Anchow toward Tingchow to cut off their retreat. Most of the Shansi force was forced to abandon the Peking-Hankow railroad and flee southwestward toward its native Province of Shansi.

The latest message from Chang Hsueh-Liang, son of Mrahsal Chang Tfu, stated his troops are about to enter Chengtingfu, 70 miles south of Paotingfu, but contrary to previous reports the Shansi forces still hold the important railway junction of Chentow near Chengtingfu. The northern spokesman said the fall of the latter place was expected hourly.

Operations on the northern front have been delayed unexpectedly by an early heavy snowfall, but fighting has been going on at Tsakowpu, the northerners advancing westward causing the Shansi army to evacuate the important trading city of Kalgan.

Shansi leaders evidently had made elaborate plans to capture Peking, the spokesman said. Apart from the two main armies, two divisions were detailed to advance along mountain roads and cut communications. This plan failed largely because of the rapidity of the northern victory against the main Shansi armies.

Several of these raids have been stopped, notably in the western hills, 20 miles from Peking, where one Shansi regiment was disbanded. A stronger Shansi force took Chochow, only 38 miles south of Peking, but was driven out by northern troops.

The northern spokesman said similar raids near Peking were expected but that the raiders were unable to keep in contact with one another and were more like bandits than regular troops. The northern alliance, he said, consequently did not regard their movements seriously. Even if certain of these irregulars should appear near the walls of Peking, and firing should be heard in the city, he continued, there would be no cause for fear since the northerners had ample forces to round them up.

Severe fighting has been going on between northern forces and Nationalists in the province of Honan, but reports indicate a slow advance of Shantung northern troops along the Lunghai railway.

A dispatch to the Westminster Gazette from Peking reports that the British intend to reoccupy the British concession at Hankow, which was of Dr. Eugene Chen and Michael turned over to the nationalists March 15, now that the nationalist regime Borodin has vanished.

The taking over by Chinese nationalists of the British concession of Hankow March 15 was regarded to be the first tangible victory of Chinese nationalism in its struggle with the powers. The concession formed a base for British trade in the interior of China and was regarded to be one of the most valuable extraterritorial areas in that country. The British had held it since 1861 and its abandonment was a direct result of anti-foreign violence indulged in last January, when mobs invaded the concession and threatened to kill all foreigners.

MISS MARION TO SING.

At the morning service at the Presbyterian church Miss Helen Marion will sing the prize number she used at the Jackson Elstedford, Mendelsson's "Hear Ye, Israel." At the evening service the hymn "Faith of Our Fathers" will be used, illustrated by seven lantern slides.

PELTZER SETS RECORD

Photograph shows Peltzer, German sprint star, winning the special 1,000-meters event from Martin, French track star at Colombes stadium at Paris. Peltzer set a new world's record for the distance, being clocked in 2 minutes 25 3/4 seconds.

SAM PICKFORD FEDERAL RADIO COMMISSIONER

Sam Pickard, Kansas, was appointed by President Coolidge Saturday to be a member of the federal radio commission at Washington.

Pickard will take the post of Henry A. Bellows, whose resignation was announced simultaneously with the new appointment. The post of Colonel John S. Dillon, who died recently remains vacant temporarily.

Eyes of Plants

Of course we know that trees have circulation, not of blood, but sap, that goes upward in the spring and downward in the autumn. It has been demonstrated also that plants have eyes, certain epidermal cells being really convex lenses filled with clear sap that brings the light rays to a focus somewhere within the cells. These little lenses are able to form images just as the eyes of insects do.

Moving Verdun's Unknown Dead to New Ossuary

French troops carrying fifty-two coffins containing remains of unknown soldiers who were killed at Verdun, to the new ossuary beside the remains of Fort Douaumont. The huge stone ossuary can be seen in distance. Thousands of relatives of the fallen and one hundred generals attended the ceremony.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From Wires
By Correspondents of the
United States Press
Association.

Gallipolis—Lawrence Callahan, 30, Middleport, fireman of New York Central passenger train No. 32, was scalded to death today when the flyer collided head-on with fast freight train. Eight passengers were injured and removed to a hospital.

Cincinnati —Heirs of the late Jacob G. Schmidlapp, millionaire capitalist, are entitled to a refund of $312,000 collected by the U. S. government as estate tax, according to a ruling of Smith Hickenlooper, U. S. district judge, on file today. Most of the beneficiaries of the will are charitable institutions.

Cincinnati —L. W. Finley, 83, retired tobacco merchant will be buried at Sarahsville today. He was the father of the late W. L. Finley former chairman of the Democratic state committee.

Toledo —While guests were enjoying refreshments refreshments following a bridge game Ralph Wright, 50, insurance agent, walked into another room in his home here and fired a shot gun into his body. He has slight chance of recovery, hospital authorities said. His father, George Wright committed suicide in Cleveland two weeks ago.

Youth, Alone, Keeps 8, With Father in Prison

Frankfort, Ky.—Written between the lines of a petition for executive clemency for Enoch Polly, serving a life sentence in state reformatory here, is the story of a five-year struggle by a youth, now twenty-three years old, to support the family of a father convicted of murder.

In 1922 Enoch Polly was found guilty of slaying Mandy Caudill. When Polly was sent to prison his oldest son, Richard, eighteen, was forced to quit school and go to work in the coal mines of Cornettsville to support his mother, ten brothers and sisters.

Richard, neighbors say, has kept the family well fed and clothed and the children in school. Two years ago the mother died, and since two of the older girls have married.

Still, Richard has quite a little family to take care of—eight children, the oldest thirteen, the youngest six.

Spring floods swept away most of his possessions, but he is "carrying on."

City of Fourth Century Is Found in Moldavia

Odessa, Russia.—Ruins of an ancient Greek city of the Fourth century, B. C., have been discovered near the village of Scurl in soviet Moldavia. The area thus far explored is said to comprise about 30 acres and contains ruins of houses, black and red painted pottery, Greek vases and other objects.

TRANSATLANTIC FLYERS GIVEN GREAT OVATION

Tremendous Roar of Cheers
Signalled Arrival of Ruth
Elder At Azores.

Ruth Elder, first American woman transatlantic flyer, arrived at Horta, Azores Islands Saturday with George Haldeman, her co-pilot in the plane, "American Girl" aboard the Dutch oil tanker, Barendrecht, that picked them up at sea Thursday.

Miss Elder and Haldeman received the greatest ovation accorded anyone in the history of the Island. Almost the whole town's population was jammed around the dock where they landed.

A tremendous roar of cheers signalled the arrival of the two flyers so miraculously brought here from mid-Atlantic.

Portuguese government authorities and all officers of the municipal government were present to greet them on behalf of the Island, and the entire consular corps was present with the American consul to welcome them on behalf of the island, and the entire consular corps was present with the American consul to welcome them on behalf of the world at large.

NEWS ABOUT COURT HOUSE

General Happenings Taken
From the Records of the
Various County
Offices

Files Suit For Divorce.

Minnie B. Brannan has filed a suit for divorce in probate court from Charles Brannan. They were married in this city June 18, 1905 and have one son. Plaintiff charges the defendant with extreme cruelty and gross neglect and claims he drinks home-brew to excess. She also claims he has not worked since January 1, 1927. The plaintiff asks for a restraining order, against her husband from disposing of any of the real estate. The order was granted by the court. Meeker Terwilliger represents the plaintiff.

First Express Company

The first person to enter the field of transporting articles of merchandise by express carrier was William Frederick Harnden of Boston. He made his first trip from that city to New York on February 23, 1839, having only enough to fill an ordinary valise. In a few months he employed two carriers and extended the service to Philadelphia.

Invisible Searchlight Penetrates Smoke

Washington.—An invisible searchlight, which is claimed to be capable of penetrating fog and rendering naval and military smoke screens useless in warfare, has been invented by a Scotchman named Baird, the Commerce department was advised by a consul, Finley A. Lindbergh.

"Noctovision" is the name given the device, which is said to have a penetrating power sixteen times greater than a beam of ordinary light through fog or smoke.

"MADONNA OF TRAIL"

A. Leinbach, St. Louis sculptor, with his design for a statue that has been accepted by the Daughters of the American Revolution to mark the national old trails across the country. Twelve of these statues, each 18 feet tall, are to be placed in the states of Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Views of of the Stars

People in the southern hemisphere see different stars, but there are some constellations which are visible at different times of the year in both hemispheres. If the earth's axis kept always perpendicular to the plane of its orbit none of the northern constellations would ever be seen in the southern hemisphere, but as the axis inclines first one way and then the other, some, or both sets can be seen at different times.

Future Food Supply

Owing to the shortage of imported foodstuffs, the production of foodstuffs locally is being encouraged by the Straits Settlements and the federated Malay states. Even some of the rubber plantations have been compelled to utilize portions of their acreage for food products. This stimulation of agriculture has created interest in mechanical means to increase production, and a shipment of tractors made recently sold readily.

WASHINGTON TAKES THE HAIR OFF THE TIGERS

To the Tune of 18 to 0—Circleville Has Not Even An Alibi To Offer.

There are no alibis to be offered in the football game here Friday between the Tigers of Circleville high school and Washington C. H., high school, altho the local team received the goose egg in the score of 18 to 0. The Tigers stood up like real players, and held the boys off the white and blue, time after time, for downs and if the weights of the two teams had been more nearly equal, it would have been a different story.

An unfortunate fumble in the early part of the game was the beginning of the first touchdown for Washington, but with all breaks against Circleville, they displayed excellent team work in blocking the powerful plunges of their opponents. When they missed them in the front, they carried on, and got in from the rear.

For this defense, Carpenter, McCrady, Grant and Davis, deserve a great deal of credit, in tackling the heavy ball carriers, and on several plays, Goeller and Peters broke thru and spoiled the plans of Washington. Peters displayed as usual, the excellent form of football, for which he is already famous and his kicking was especially commendable, and the long kicks were well followed up.

In some cases, our men were so light, that when tackled, it looked like "swing your partner" or what have you. But the local team blocking and tackling, or the score would have been much worse. In the game, Dumm, of Circleville, was kicked out, but not badly hurt, while Campbell, Washington's tackle had to be carried from the field; in fact their entire team, knew they had been in a football game, and it was a great game. Circleville high blossomed forth with a band which added to the spirit of the crowd. There were more people from Washington than there were from our own city. Laugh that off! And the plucky team deserves all kinds of support from its home town.

FATHER FORCES DAUGHTER INTO A SUICIDE PACT

Columbus —A melancholy father held his 14 year old daughter prisoned in the bathroom of their house for two hours this morning while he waited for the open gas jets to take them to their doom. He had first forced the weeping child to write a death note bidding their friends good bye. The man is David T. Sells, 38, transferman, who is in a serious condition in Mt. Carmel hospital. He had drank three different kinds of poison before forcing the daughter, Alberta, 14, into the bathroom. The girl was not seriously effected by the fumes. They were discovered by Thomas Worthington business partner of Sells. When he was unable to rouse Sells he went into the house. The bathroom door, unlocked, revealed the strange death pact. The father was standing with his back to the door, semi-conscious. The daughter, in a dazed condition, was sitting on a stool, weeping, a towel over her face. The death note written by the child said: "Daddy made me turn on the gas and kill ourselves. Goodbye, everybody."

Hiking Drummers Busy
Long-distance drumming is a new sport in Belgium, and there is strong competition as to who has the strongest legs and arms. A fifty-year-old Poulet drummer in the Walloon district recently wagered that he could march from Fosses to Namur, a total distance of 25 miles, without stopping and without ceasing to beat his drum, except for an hour for luncheon. A Nimy drummer, named Robillard, aged fifty-nine, then made a drumming journey from Mons to Ath and back, covering 34 miles in 11 hours. Then a drummer of Maurages stepped the 40 miles to Brussels and return to the beat of the drum. The competitions are popular among workers, especially miners.

Scarfs That Can Be Made at Home

Neckpieces Easy to Stitch; Should Have Shoulder Pompon to Match.

There is a charm and coquetry about these dainty nothings which accompany a woman's costume that rejoice lovers of feminine beauty in the styles now drifting over from Paris.

Chief among novelties for the season of 1927-1928 are new ideas and designs of scarfs and shawls, for fashion decrees that every costume must have its accompanying scarf or shawl.

All summer the printed and hand-painted scarf has floated from feminine shoulders, and Spanish shawls, deeply fringed and richly embroidered, have swathed American figures. These will continue in use, but dictators of the mode, ever alert for something new with which to adorn autumn costumes, have introduced the braid-trimmed scarf and the shoulder pompon to match it, or its trimmings in color.

Handsome and effective as this vogue is, no woman need be without these beautiful accessories to her costume. The veriest tyro with a needle can make her own scarfs for a fraction of what they would cost her in the shops.

Take the new sports scarf, for instance. It is merely a strip of wool material, about six inches in width, intended to loop over one side of the neck. Both ends are finished with braid of one-half an inch or more in width, but the end which hangs in front is adorned with oddly-placed bits of braid, in lengths of several inches, with squares and circles of different colored fancy braids, put on with bold or invisible stitches, or edged with very narrow braid of any desired color. Small ends of fancy braids—some of which come in round designs—can be cut apart for these ornaments, and the whole work may be quickly and cheaply accomplished. The decorator has only to remember that scarfs of this nature demand short lengths, squares and circles of braid, not fancy designs in other shapes. The pompon which matches the chief decorative color in the scarf is merely a big rosette of silk floss. To be quite up-to-date one must have the pompon match the handbag, or its ornament in color. If the handbag has its owner's initials wrought in red and green on one side, then either green or red is duplicated in the scarf braids and two pompons are worn together—one green and the other red. It is also smart to have stockings match the scarf, bag and at least one pompon, if the ground color is in any beige tint, or some hue adapted to the gown worn.

The closing days of this season's vacation time are likely to see girls stitching silver and gold and many colored braids in combination upon three-yard lengths of shining crepe, or adding fringes to shorter lengths of these decorative and useful shoulder and neck draperies for the costumes of autumn and winter.

Materials in vogue for wider scarfs, of about 15 or 16 inches width and three yards in length, including fringe, are silk crepe, thin soft silk and satin. When purchasing material remember that one length of goods will make two scarfs, with a piece left over with which to line the bag.

Sports Suit of Beige Flannel for Fall Wear

Among the chic outfits offered for the autumn season is the sports suit of beige flannel. The long coat with a double throw at the throat and the bell-shaped sleeves, untrimmed, are smart new notes of the season.

Hairpins Are in Favor as Long Hair Returns

With the return of long tresses, hairpins are coming back, too.

Novelty pins, in the form of large pearls, Spanish ornaments, and tortoiseshell combs are not only being shown, but sold. Because back hair is still lacking in quantity, if not actually pinned on, the ornamental pins have to be extremely light in weight.

Wigs are one way of keeping the hair ornaments in place. Many women find them more satisfactory than artificial back hair, which is not easily attached, and forms a precarious basis for valuable ornaments.

WOMAN SPURNS RICHES TO WED

Spurning a $250,000 trust fund established by her divorced husband on condition that she did not marry his brother, Mrs. E. C. Carrington has become Mrs. Campbell Carrington in an Episcopal church ceremony in New York City.

The newlyweds left immediately on a secret honeymoon after the ceremony, which took place Wednesday.

She was married to Colonel E. C. Carrington in 1920, and the colonel subsequently charged his brother with being unduly friendly with her. He met Campbell in front of his wife's apartment one day and administered a public whipping. Then came the divorce.

The wisdom of the Chinese Solomon so delighted the people that temples were built in his honor, his wise sayings were widely quoted and came to be taught in the Chinese schools.

Another pioneer in the industry was Joseph Dixon, who commenced business in 1838.

Oysters
An oyster lays about 60,000,000 eggs a year. If just one oyster were left alone by all and sundry, says Professor Lull, until it had great-grand-children, their shells would make a pile eight times the size of the earth. Fortunately, the infant mortality rate among oysters is very high.

MOTHER AND BABE UNDER BATTLE FIRE
Thrilling Experience at Gettysburg Related.

Denison, Iowa.—To have passed safely through the battle of Gettysburg with her baby less than a week old, although under fire throughout the battle, was the experience of Mrs. Georgia Wade McClellan, ninety-three, of this city, who just died.

Mrs. McClellan, the wife of a Union soldier, lived on East Cemetery hill, Gettysburg, Pa. Her baby, Kenneth, was born on June 26, 1863. Even at the time the child was born Union and Confederate soldiers were mobilizing in that vicinity.

Five days later the firing started. The house was so situated as to be within the Union lines and exposed constantly to Confederate fire. To the Confederates it appeared to be an ideal location for Union snipers; so the house throughout the battle was the target of the Confederates.

Early in the battle a bullet passed through the wall of the house and dropped, spent but still hot, on the pillow on which the mother and her child lay. As the battle progressed the yard was filled with wounded Union soldiers.

Every pane of glass in the house was broken by Confederate bullets. Early the second morning of the battle a Confederate sharpshooter's bullet crashed through a door, buried itself in the heart of Mrs. McClellan's sister, who was baking biscuits for the Union soldiers, and caused her death almost instantly. A huge shrapnel shell lodged in the top of the house, splitting open a partition. It failed to explode.

Summoned by Mrs. McClellan's screams, Union soldiers came to the house. Observing the situation, they assisted Mrs. McClellan, her baby, her mother and her mother's small children through the aperture made by the shrapnel shell and into the basement, where they remained until the battle was over.

A monument to Mrs. McClellan's sister, Virginia Wade, who was killed, was erected in 1900 by the Iowa Woman's Relief corps.

Mrs. McClellan's son, who was born just before the battle, now lives in Billings, Mont.

The King's Head
Each succeeding British sovereign "looks the opposite way" to his predecessor on their coinage. This has been observed since the Restoration of Charles I, who expressed a strong desire not to look the same way as Oliver Cromwell. It was in the reign of Charles II that Britannia first appeared on the coinage, the original model being taken from a portrait of beautiful Frances Stewart, Duchess of Richmond.

Power Stored by Dams
The value of dams to power users is illustrated by the fact that the huge Dix river dam in Kentucky stores enough water to generate 25,000,000 kilowatt-hours of electric energy even if there were no more rainfall to replenish the water supply.

Arctic Tern
Although the golden plover makes a longer continuous flight than any other bird, the Arctic tern travels farther, breeding far North. It winters on the edge of the Antarctic continent, 11,000 miles away. Incidentally, it enjoys more hours of sunlight in a year than any other living creature.

Continental Currency
The year 1780 marked the end of the issuing of Continental money. The year 1783 is the last year in which state paper money was issued, and in that year only Pennsylvania, New Jersey and North Carolina issued such currency. The other ten colonies had stopped previous to that year.

THE GOVERNOR MAY ASK FOR SENATORSHIP

Candidacy For Fourth Term Would Be Opposed By the Members of Own Party.

Columbus, Ohio, (Special)—

Governor Donahey will not be a candidate for nomination, seeking a fourth term in his present office. Neither will he be a candidate for either the presidential or the vice presidential nomination, on the national Democratic ticket.

These statements can be made as definite and on the word of the governor himself. Therefore, it would be useless to deny them, unless the governor cannot be taken as sincere and his honesty is not to be questioned.

He has not given reason for declining another term as governor or fusing a place on the national ticket but they can, by the process of simple reasoning, be assigned.

There is a realization that to seek a fourth term as governor would draw serious opposition in his own party and perhaps lead to defeat, if successful at the primaries. This is a situation he wishes to avoid. With this goes our appreciation of the fact that nationally he is not sufficiently well known, at present, to add strength to the ticket were he to be nominated for either the presidency or the vice presidency. If the Democrats were defeated in the election it might be placed to his having been on the ticket. This is another situation he wishes to avoid.

But the feeling rests strong that if he can serve a term in the United States senate he will acquire such a reputation thruout the country, as a friend of the people, that the presidential nomination will come to him in 1932 and with that safely in his possession he can resign from the senate and enter the campaign far better fortified than would be possible next year. Whatever of fear he would have as a nominee for governor or either president or vice president, in 1928, will not prevail, for the senate. There is an honest belief he can defeat Senator Simeon D. Pess, who will undoubtedly be nominated by the Republicans for another term. That contest will be welcomed.

The governor has at no time declared he will not be a candidate for the senatorship, altho repeatedly saying he would not try for another term of governor or a place on the national Democratic ticket. Therefore it is safe to assume a seat in the United States senate is his ambition and the goal towards which he is aiming.

In a way he has expressed the position he will take in the senate, if successful in securing a seat, by declaring he would represent the people, as a whole, on all public questions affecting their welfare, irrespective of whether it came from the Republicans or the Democrats. This means he would slip the noose of party if it were believed it was attempting to pull him into something not for the best interests of all.

In view of all these conditions the governor may safely be regarded as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the United States senate. Just as the more thoughtful students of the political map look upon this as pointing the way to the future course of the governor in politics they likewise concede the nomination for governor on the Democratic ticket next year will go to Congressman Martin L. Davey, of Kent, representing the 14th Ohio district in the national house of representatives. He is regarded as so strongly entrenched and held in such high regard by all elements in the party that defeat is impossible. He may, and it would cause no surprise, be nominated without opposition.

The Republicans are facing the situation of a probable half dozen candidates seeking the gubernatorial nomination, with the fear this may lead to some factional division in the party.

There is, however, a heartening and encouraging aspect found in the fact that Chairman Fred W. Warner, of the state central committee, and other leaders, sensing the danger which lurks in this, are devoting themselves to the task of bringing about unity and cementing the forces so a solid front may be pushed against the opposition.

They are presenting the truthful argument that this is normally a Republican state and if the Democrats elect a governor it is because the Republicans themselves have failed in their duty and allowed zeal for a candidate to crowd out the more important factor of zeal to party and principle.

Fortunately the argument is having weight.—George U. Marvin.

INDICTMENTS FOR STEALING COUNTY FUNDS

Treasurer of Shelby Claims He Was Kidnapped, Taken In-Country and Robbed.

Plea of not guilty to a charge of embezzling more than $37,000 in county funds was made by Alphonso Beery, former Shelby county treasurer, when arraigned before Common Pleas Judge J. G. Barnes at Sidney. Beery was placed under $10,000 bond and will go on trial October 31.

Beery's arrest, followed three indictments returned by the grand jury after an investigation of his alleged kidnapping and robbery last July and the report of state examiners' who reported irregularities and shortages in his accounts.

The three indictments charged him with embezzling $37,038.25, the amount he alleged was taken from him in July, $1600 and $2500, the latter two shortages in his records. Beery served two terms as county treasurer, the last expiring September 1.

Last July, Beery stated he left his office one morning to deposit county funds in the bank. He declared an automobile intercepted him on the way, men seized and bound him, took him out on a lonely road and robbed him. Later, when two suspects were brought before him, he could not identify them. The grand jury investigated the robbery story.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

MILK ALONE NOT A COMPLETE FOOD.

There is a popular belief that milk is a complete food. This has probably come about thru the knowledge that all animals live and thrive on an exclusive milk diet for varying lengths of time after birth.

In experiments with rats now under way at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station, W. E. Krauss, dairy biologist, finds that it is impossible to bring about normal development when an exclusive milk diet is fed from the time of weaning. Growth proceeds at a rapid rate for five or six weeks, and then is followed by a short period of constant or slightly declining weight, after which there is a very rapid loss of weight. Death usually occurs after 11 or 12 weeks.

The paleness of the ears, eyes and tail and the general pale appearance of all the internal organs as revealed by post mortem, suggest anaemia, brought about thru insufficient iron, and not thru a deficiency of vitamins.

Milk is a poor source of iron. Hemoglobin determination made by Dr. Krauss showed a rapid decline in hemoglobin content of the blood as this type of feeding proceeded. When the hemoglobin content fell below 10 per cent of normal death occurred. The rapid growth which occurs during the first few weeks is made possible, it was explained, by the young animals drawing on the iron stored in the liver before birth.

An effort is now being made to find a substance, which when added to an exclusive milk diet will bring about normal growth and reproduction. Up to the present time dehydrated yeast has given the most satisfactory results.

OILY SPRAYS KILL CLUSTER FLIES.

The swarms of cluster flies, which sometimes enter dwellings in the fall of the year and collect in large numbers in attics and unused rooms, may be destroyed by practically any one of the oily fly sprays. It may be necessary, however, to make several applications of the spray during the fall to kill the successive lots of flies as they gain entrance.

This fly somewhat resembles the common house fly, but it is slightly larger. So far as known, according to J. S. Houser, entomologist at the Ohio experiment station, it is not a menace to the health of the family to as great an extent as the house fly.

Altho the cluster fly is known to be of European origin, its breeding habits and seasonal development are not thoroly understood. It is believed to be for the most part an out-of-door creature and to enter dwellings in the fall for hibernation only.

VEGETABLES

Cash prizes on all kinds of vegetables at Circleville Pumpkin Show. 14octd3.

NEW FRUIT VARIETIES FROM BUD MUTATIONS.

Bud sports or bud mutations of fruits are rare, yet a few of the choice varieties or strains have originated in this way. F. H. Ballou, associate horticulturist of the Ohio experiment station, names the Dark Red Rome Beauty, Red Spy, Red Gravenstein and Dark Red Delicious or Starking apples as examples of bud sports.

A bud sport, Mr. Ballou says, results in a branch that produces fruit different in some particular from that of the rest of the tree upon which the freak branch grows. If the fruit on the sport branch proves superior in some important character to the original variety it may be propagated by budding or grafting in the usual way.

The "sport" varieties named by Mr. Ballou differ from the original varieties in color. A more recent sport of the Grimes Golden has appeared. It differs from the parent variety in size being almost double the size of the Grimes with which orchardists are familiar. In color, texture and flavor this new apple preserves the characteristics of the parent variety.

By far the largest proportion of the varieties of fruits originated as seedlings of unknown parentage. A few have been produced by hand varieties and planting the seeds of pollinating the blossoms of chosen the fruits which developed from these crosses. A still smaller number have originated as bud sports or bud mutations.

FERTILIZERS FOR GREENHOUSE LETTUCE.

"Chemical fertilizers for greenhouse lettuce" is the subject of a bulletin just published by the Ohio experiment station at Wooster.

The author, J. H. Gourley, chief of the horticultural department, states that Ohio has more acres of greenhouse devoted to the production of vegetables than any other state, and that lettuce ranks first among the vegetables grown, often two crops being grown in a season followed by a crop of cucumbers or tomatoes.

In the experiments an annual application of 30 tons of manure per acre produced higher yields than chemical fertilizers alone. Half this amount of manure supplemented with 1,000 pounds of 3-12-4 or similar high grade fertilizer produced maximum commercial crops.

Nitrogen alone did not increase the yield of lettuce. Phosphorous used alone increased the yield over the untreated soil. A complete fertilizer gave larger yields in all cases than any one or two elements used alone.

The results were so satisfactory that Mr. Gourley recommends that a complete fertilizer be used in preparing Wooster silt loam soil for lettuce. The quantity to use will depend upon the soil, but one-half ton applied in the fall for the two crops of lettuce and one-half ton prior to the tomato or cucumber crop usually should be sufficient. In order to avoid a high accumulation of salts in the soil, it is important not to overfertilize, the author states.

Lime also proved beneficial in the tests. An annual application of at least 1,000 pounds per acre seems justified by the results of the experiments.

Not Parental Models

The biological survey says that the males of some shore birds, among which are the Phalaropes, incubate the eggs and care for the young. The cowbird and the coo-coo of Europe lay their eggs in the nests of other birds, neither of the parents hatching them.

FARM BUREAU EXHIBIT.

The Pickaway County Farm Bureau has arranged an exhibit for the Pumpkin Show to acquaint people with the services offered to farm people of this county thru organization. The exhibit will be housed in a tent on East Main street and will be comprised of the following exhibits:

The European Corn Borer, showing the life history of this insect and the damages wrought by it in the infestations in Ohio and other states.

A Soils exhibit based upon the results of the Soil Testing Clinic, will give a classification of Pickaway soil types. The type of treatment necessary to give most economical results in the average Pickaway county cropping system.

The third exhibit will be a set-up of the various services and the correlation of these services which are offered to Pickaway county folks thru the Farm Bureau organizations.

All visitors to the Pumpkin Show should take the opportunity to visit these exhibits, because a practical application of the messages carried in this exhibit can be made advantageously. 13octd2.

"Lost" Fort in Canada Found After Century

Montreal.—Old Fort Halkett, in the Lizard river country, abandoned almost 100 years ago by the Hudson Bay company, has been rediscovered by Allaire Delzell, a trapper, who has reached Telegraph creek British Columbia, from the river country. In the '80s an attempt was made by an expedition of the geographical survey to find the old post, but without success.

Delzell probably is the first white man to visit the place since the traders abandoned it a century ago. He found an old cabin, built of squared timbers, near a stretch of water called Fish lake by the Indians.

Inside the cabin was a quantity of powder and lead, as well as a number of ancient muskets. Parchment made from caribou skins covered the windows, but Delzell believes that the parchment was provided by the Indians, who apparently make use of the old fort from time to time.

Delzell told of an exciting race between himself and a pack of 26 wolves. He was crossing the ice on Fish lake when he saw the wolves approaching in fan formation. Unarmed, except for a .22 automatic pistol, he was compelled to roost in a tree for several hours until the wolves went in search of easier prey.

Whale Not "Spouter"

Contrary to popular belief, the whale does not spout water, according to an answered question in Liberty. The condensation of its warm breath in the colder air, it is explained, makes it seem like a geyser of water.

C. O. HUNTER LEAVES $158,000

Former Hocking Valley Railroad Counsel's Estate Largely in Real Estate.

An estate of $158,000 was left by the late C. O. Hunter, former general counsel of the Hocking Valley railroad, according to an inventory filed with Probate Judge Homer Bostwick, Columbus, Tuesday morning.

The estate consists of $92,000 in real estate, $22,000 in stocks, $16,000 in government bonds and $22,000 in certificates of deposit.

FARM MAKES 40 TONS OF HONEY

Newell, S. D., Oct. 13.—More than 40 tons of honey made from sweet clover is the crop that is expected by Dr. O. H. Clark of Newell, who employs three men regularly and needs extra help during the spring and fall to care for his 500 stands of bees. The honey gatherers are divided in nine yards which are scattered over an area of 32 miles on the Belle Fourche irrigation project.

Dr. Clark purchased 16 colonies of bees four years ago as a hobby. He cared for them himself and became so fascinated with the work that the hobby grew into a full fledged business employing several people.

GLYPTODON'S SHELL FOUND

In Oklahoma—'Twas Earliest of Armadillos, 'Tis Said.

Norman, Okla., Oct. 13.—Finding a fossil shell of a Glyptodon, largest prehistoric member of the armadillo family, near Frederick, Okla., has proved the mammals followed the retreat of the glaciers to the Arctic circle much farther than previously supposed, Dr. Charles N. Gould, geologist, announced today.

Dr. Gould, director of the State Geological Survey, said the shell was found in what once was the bed of a river, where numerous implements were discovered which were believed to have been made by the first race of people to inhabit this continent.

The geologist said the shell and several bones were fairly well preserved.

Similar shells have been found in Mexico and the southeastern part of the United States, Dr. Gould said. The animals measured as much as 14 feet long and stood six feet high. They were toothless and, scientists believe, lived entirely on vegetation.

Henpecked Husbands

Despite the secrecy of the proceedings of H. A. O. H. H., the success of this year's meeting is causing the membership to grow. The initials stand for the "Honorable and Ancient Order of Henpecked Husbands." Every Easter Monday the members escape from their wives to spend a convivial day together. This year's festival was held at a secret meeting place near Halifax, England, and the program of doing things that are forbidden in members' homes was so attractive that the waiting list is growing.

Getting Accurate Data on Ocean Temperature

A virtual floating thermometer has been made of the Los Angeles liner Calawali by the University of California, says the Los Angeles Times. In an effort to obtain accurate data about the ocean's temperature for use in studying currents, the university, in co-operation with the Los Angeles Steamship company, has installed a thermograph in the engine room of the ship.

Attached to the intake pipe of the engine is a tube of mercury. The other end is attached to the thermograph. As the sea water is drawn into the intake it flows over this mercury tube, causing the mercury to rise and fall according to the temperature.

A strip of paper ruled for days, hours and minutes automatically records the temperature at all times as the ship plows its way through the Pacific to and from Hawaii.

Heretofore all study of ocean temperatures was made by dipping up buckets of surface water and placing a thermometer therein.

YOUR NEXT CAR AUBURN POWERED BY LYCOMING

Beats 45 Fastest Trains

45 Trains

40,000 Miles
65,678 Min.

3 Auburn Stock Cars

42,000 Miles
40,435 Min.

2000 Miles Farther in 25,243 Less Minutes

THE public thinks of such trains as the "Century" and the "Chief" as being fast. They are.

But it requires over 65,600 minutes for 45 of the world's fastest trains, going in all directions from Chicago, to run 40,000 miles. And these trains get MANY fresh engines, at regular intervals, in order to make this remarkable speed.

Contrast this phenomenal performance of three Auburn fully equipped STOCK cars that ran 42,000 miles in less than 40,435 minutes (exact duplicates in every way of the Auburn cars every Auburn dealer has).

Here is an amazing record of performance, endurance and value never before approached, let alone equalled.

No change of engines for these three stock cars. No favoritism, but the hardest kind of driving, continuously, under American Automobile Association official supervision, on the Atlantic City Speedway.

To even RUN 42,000 continuous miles, at much less speed, would be a tremendous tribute to ANY automobile's efficiency and stamina. That is farther mileage and infinitely harder punishment than any three average private owners impose on their cars in a whole year's service.

But no other car has ever survived an official test of this magnitude and distance. Three Auburn cars DID it, at speeds that overwhelmingly break all records.

Not only that, but we KNOW that Auburn cars can go much farther at even FASTER speed.

The purpose of this test was not speed, altho that is sensational and establishes Auburn supreme in this respect.

The real purpose was to prove in the acid test of this proving grounds that Auburn cars ARE better designed, better built, more efficient, and more durable.

In these highly competitive days of extravagant claims, the public is entitled to the unvarnished truth about the relative value of motor cars.

It is what a car DOES and not what its builders SAY that determines VALUE.

Drive an Auburn Straight Eight and if it does not sell itself you will not be asked to buy.

Handkerchief in History
According to Dr. Frank H. Vizetelly, noted lexicographer, the use of the handkerchief is derived from the Chinese. In its primitive silk tissue and paper form, this article was common in China long before the Christian era.

Deer Move Eyeballs
There is a belief common among hunters and guides in the North woods that the eyeballs of a deer are set fast in the socket and are immovable. The deer has the same control over its eyes as other animals of this general type.

SWORDS OF HEROES PRIZED BY MUSEUM

Discovery of a document nearly one hundred years old has revealed interesting information about an ornate sword that for years has rested in a vault in the Colorado State museum. The document, now in the possession of the Colorado State Historical society, sets forth that Maj. Donald Frazer, who owned the sword, was the aide-de-camp of Gen. Zebulon M. Pike in the War of 1812, a man whose name is entwined with a thousand memories of American prowess and glory. It tells a story of his devotion to General Pike, and of his obscure death in New York. It now has brought together the companion swords of these two distinguished officers, to rest, equally honored, in the Colorado museum. How New York ever came to part with the memento of the War of 1812; how it let Major Frazer die in obscurity without military honors after honoring him in his youth, is a mystery to the Colorado historians. The interesting memento has traveled about the country, from New York to the South and from the South to Colorado.—Kansas City Star.

ONCE OVERS

(By J. J. Munday.)
ARE YOU OVER-DRESSED?
In manners and dress you are trying to create a good impression. You want those whom you meet to admire you as a "good dresser." The crowd you will attract on account of your clothes and the way you wear them does not amount to much if that is all they look for. One likes his friends to be well dressed is possible. There is considerable difference between being well and appropriately dressed and being over-dressed. To be suitably dressed is worthwhile. Wearing in an office or on the street, outfits suitable for home or for some social occasion is not only bad taste but it is provincial. It shows ignorance of what is proper attire. Women are not the only offenders in this matter. Some young men are engaged in work that would ruin fine clothes. By dressing too well they cannot give proper effort and attention to their work. They don't know enough to dress for the job. You can win respect by dressing suitably for the work, time and place you fill.—Copyright 1927, International Feature Service, Inc.

Valuable Fertilizer
"Nitrated peat" is the fertilizer produced by an Italian chemist from explosives containing ammonium nitrate. The explosive is placed in a measured amount of water, which dissolves out the nitrate, and after a short time is decanted as a saturated solution. This is mixed with peat powder and evaporated. The product contains about 43 per cent of ammonium nitrate, and has been shown to have fertilizing value nearly equal to that of sodium nitrate.

Fire as Thermometer
It is said that hunters and explorers in the Far North sometimes determine the approximate temperature by building a fire. If it is 40 or more degrees below zero the fire appears to give off steam instead of smoke.

THOUSANDS have been waiting for it! A gas-burning heater that would circulate healthful, even warm air to all parts of the small house.

Perhaps you've wanted such a heater to modernize your home.

Now, here it is—the Gas Heatrola. A true Heatrola in every respect—handsome, highly efficient, absolutely safe.

It has the famous Intensi-Fire Air Duct and other Heatrola features plus several new refinements never before offered in a gas heating plant.

Come in! See it! Or telephone and invite our representative to call. The Estate Gas Heatrola was made to order for your needs! Our very liberal deferred-payment plan makes it so easy to own.

The Intensi-Fire Air Duct absorbs and blocks much of the heat that the ordinary heating device allows to escape up the chimney.

Sure-Footed Goral

Among the strange animals that came under the observation of Roy Andrews, who conducted an expedition into further China for the American Museum of Natural History, was the goral, a mountain goat. "I have seen a goral," says the explorer, "run at full speed down the side of a cliff that appeared to be almost perpendicular."

REAL CAVE MAN THRILLS OMAHA

Hermit Who Had Never Heard of Radio, Motors
or Airplanes.

Omaha, Neb.—Sixty minutes from the Stone age to the Jazz age. That is the gap that separates the primitive world of Henry F. Morris, Nebraska cave man, from the complex world of modern, living, teeming Omaha. It is the gap between the Twentieth century and 10,000 years ago. A short one as minutes go, but infinitely great when measured on the social scale.

On the one hand the intellectual development of centuries; on the other an atavistic reversion to the early, confused and muddled gropings of man as we find him at the dawn of history. Like a visitor from a strange planet, Morris, blinking as much as an owl when out of his element, recently came to Omaha after more than forty years away from civilization. His coming boldly proclaimed how easily can be lost the veneer of social amenities and graces that separate the gentleman of 1926 from his rude, uncultured forebear of the Neolithic age.

Morris, who is now about seventy, was induced to quit his wooded retreat at the solicitation of a newspaper man anxious to parade him from the headlines of his paper. He was first "discovered" several months ago after he had lived away from all contact with the world for more than four decades. He had never heard of the radio, electricity, the automobile, airplanes or any of the other modern devices.

His Cave Is His World.

His cave, also his world and empire, is on the banks of the Platte river, in the solitude of a wild, overgrown and desolate stretch of marshes and wasteland. The hermit of the Platte rarely encounters human beings. When he does they do not see him. His eyes are sharp; his step too light for that.

The hermit's visit to Omaha was his first trip to a city, for even before he quitted civilization he had spent his life in the backwood clearings. The visit was not without thrills, however, and he saw for the first time many of the wonders of the Twentieth century. When he heard the human voice over the radio, "the spirits," he shrieked. When the lifting music commenced, Morris stood in awe and wonderment. The only music he had heard in forty years was that of the birds and the wind-blown trees.

But while the hermit enjoyed Omaha, Omaha enjoyed still more the hermit. It is doubtful if he was most struck by the peculiar mannerisms of the other—Morris or his hosts. Everywhere the queer, strange individual went large crowds followed him. For the children he was a super-attraction, a colossal side show, and many a tired mother walked block upon block so Willie or Johnny might see the "funny man."

Morris doesn't walk; he shuffles, and it has been years since he has straightened himself to the full length of his six feet two. He walks with a stoop, giving his massive, knotted shoulders a monstrous appearance, which is heightened by long and sinewy arms that dangle to his knees.

Occasionally, to show his prowess, Morris, with the simplicity and naivete of a child, would clin himself on awning bars, do a spread eagle or perform acrobatic antics that a man of thirty or forty cannot begin to attempt. Pop-eyed crowds watched him start to climb a light pole at Sixteenth and Farnam street, Omaha's busiest intersection.

The cave dweller's face is covered with a heavy beard that had been disturbed only occasionally in forty years by a crude, hand-made razor wielded by the hermit himself. Ragged and grimy, it added to his generally unkempt appearance. Small piercing eyes that perpetually blinked in the strong sunlight were deep set beneath high orbital ridges and peered through heavy, overhanging eyebrows. His crowning glory was his hair. A matted, snarled mass it was, closely grown and heavy. Like his eyebrows, it was steel gray of hue and resembled manila hemp much more than human hair.

Out of Place Among Guests.

A tatterdemalion outfit was hung loosely about his gaunt figure. Resembling a scarecrow, Morris easily might have been mistaken for an automaton; but never for the human being that he is. His complete outfit consisted solely of a pair of khaki trousers, of ancient vintage, and a shirt, patched beyond recognition. His trousers were supported by a rope tied about his waist; his shirt was bared at the breast.

Bareheaded, barefooted and barelegged to the knees, Morris was strangely out of place as he mingled with the smartly dressed guests of the fashionable hotel where he was housed during the Omaha visit.

Once upon a time, he confided, he was affluent, as affluence went in the backwoods country; but an unrequited love affair, the ever-haunting vision of a faithless girl who had left him waiting at the altar drove him to renounce forever the superfluous life of a world filled with heartaches. Morris will not discuss the "wimmen," and nervously shies away from them.

Arriving in Omaha, Morris was taken to the Fontaine hotel, where luncheon with an actress was awaiting him. As the battery of cameramen began "shooting" flashlights, the hermit, pleading for his life, scampered underneath an adjacent table. It was only after much coaxing, that he resumed his seat. A bewildering array of knives, forks and spoons lay before him on the table. He picked them up and began distributing them at each place only to find an equal amount of silverware in front of each guest. He appeared much relieved when the dining ordeal was finished.

Taken to the city hall he was introduced to Mayor James C. Dahlman, chief executive of Omaha for 21 years. Leaving the city hall, Morris complained of thirst. A teetotaler, he declined the invitation of a reporter to have some beer, but expressed interest when told it was "bootlegged," and was surprised when told of prohibition. He thought, he said, the soft drink parlors he had seen were saloons. At the Omaha Field club, Morris sang a song for the caddies which he said he learned as a child. Translated from his provincial dialect into English, it went:

"I am the son of a bankrupter;

I suppose you heard of the news;
My father failed in business,
And I need a pair of shoes."

Next he was taken to a natatorium where he enjoyed a plunge. Standing on the edge of the tank, the hermit became eager as he watched some high school students in bathing. Without preliminaries, he jumped into the water, clothes and all.

Saw the Movies Twice.

After a return to his hotel, the hermit was taken out to see Omaha by night. The large electric signs excited his curiosity to the breaking point. In fascination, he stood beneath one of the more complex of them for more than fifteen minutes.

Taken to a movie, the excited old fellow sat through two performances before he could be induced to leave. He chuckled loudly at the antics of the comedians, but all the time he kept mumbling that he "could not understand it." He asked why they didn't talk.

Morris' next serious encounter with civilization occurred when he was taken to his room to go to bed. He refused to take off his clothes. After more than an hour he asked a companion, who had volunteered to stay with him, if he could sleep on the floor. Permission granted, Morris climbed out of bed and expressed satisfaction as he lay on the hardwood floor.

Morris does not miss contact with society and prefers to live in solitude. He often talks aloud or sings, he said, when he is alone in the woods. He had little difficulty expressing himself to his hosts.

FINDS ROMANCE IS OUT OF EXPLORING

Amundsen to Devote Time to Lecturing.

Moscow.—Capt. Roald Amundsen, the man who had peeped at the top and bottom of the world, is through.

"The airplane and dirigible have taken the romance out of exploration," he said. "Dog sleds nowadays fly through the air. The good old times when terrific hardships were a pleasure are gone."

"The man who starts north or south in a dog team today feels like a piker. Some 'Byrd' comes along and squeezes a year's trip in one day of twenty-four hours. He packs up a couple of chicken sandwiches, and then is too excited to eat. We in the old days dragged a ton of hardware over the ice and were glad to munch every crumb."

Though resolved to spend the rest of his life lecturing amid the luxuries of civilization, Amundsen believes there is much to be done.

The eleven-day train trip across the steppes of Siberia put him in a reflective mood. He waited five days for the weekly express at Vladivostok and it pulled into Moscow three and a half hours late.

"Has anybody started to dig a hole in the ground?" he mused. "Think of the unlimited possibilities of such a venture. We go down a couple of thousand feet and bring up limitless treasures. There must be something or nothing in the 8,000 miles down from New York to China."

Judged by comparative developments up to the present time, Amundsen planned his hopes for future commercial and scientific flying on the dirigible as against the airplane.

With a little greater perfection of maneuvering apparatus, he said he had no doubt but that dirigibles could be anchored over any given spot on the face of the globe while scientists descended by means of rope ladders to make observations on the ground.

MAGICIAN FRYE ENTERTAINS A BIG AUDIENCE

The first of the series of the lecture course under the auspices of the brotherhoods of the churches of this city, was given Friday evening at the high school auditorium.

The audience was entertained from start to finish by the rapid work of the entertainers; William Eugene Frye, magician, and Miss Dio Miles. The latter is not only attractive, but is a finished musician and also possesses a sweet contralto voice.

Professor Frye, did some good tricks. The fishing stunt, disappearance of a loaned watch and rings, created a good deal of interest. His expose of spiritualistic seances was clever work and the sword act and the flag trick were new ones. His work was clever.

Miss Miles is a clever artist. In her musical work on the zylphone, her playing old tunes pleased the audience and she was roundly applauded.

Mrs. Lemuel B. James and guest, Mrs. Curtis Lee, of Carmel, California, and Mrs. Joseph G. Wilder, Miss Adeline Weldon, Mrs. Henry P. Folsom, Mrs. James I. Smith and Miss Nell Weldon were guests of Mrs. Benjamin J. Throop and Mrs. J. Albert Schoedinger at the Hannah Neil Mission party given at the Elks club home Columbus Friday.

Mrs. B. T. Hedges was a gracious hostess to the Presbyterian Missionary society Friday afternoon. A goodly proportion of the members were present and the meeting was unusually interesting. Mrs. Charles Dresbach led the devotions. The roll call was responded to by every member having an item of interest on Alaska, prepared and distributed by Mrs. Glenn Nickerson. Mrs. W. F. Cellar gave an up-to-minute talk on current, religious and missionary views. Mrs. D. V. Courtright gave a most interesting talk on "Oriental Religious Rites," telling of contrasting customs and beliefs of the Whirling Dervishes of Tripoli. During the business meeting the society voted to have an all day sewing in the near future for a missionary's family. At the close of the meeting delightful refreshments were served by Mrs. E. F. Anderson, Mrs. G. H. Colville, Miss Clara Southward, Mrs. E. E. Nelson, Mrs. B. T. Hedges and Mrs. Adele Foresman.

EIGHTY THOUSAND TROOPS SURROUNDED AND CAPTURED

Northern Army Maneuvered and Outflanked the Southern Celestials, Rounded Them Up and a Stampede Ensued—Biggest Battle on Chinese Soil This Year—Pekin Now Safe—British Re-Occupy Hankow, Considered One of the Most Valuable Commercial Centers in the Flowery Empire.

The main Shansi armies which have been crushed, but scattered bands still are in the field, a few within 20 miles of Peking, with northern forces close at their heels, a spokesman for the northern alliance started Friday.

This spokesman declared that the northerners deliberately drew the main Shansi army of 80,000 men almost to Paotingfu, 85 miles southwest of Peking, and then sent the northern army by way of Anchow toward Tingchow to cut off their retreat. Most of the Shansi force was forced to abandon the Peking-Hankow railroad and flee southwestward toward its native Province of Shansi.

The latest message from Chang Hsueh-Liang, son of Mrahsal Chang Tfu, stated his troops are about to enter Chengtingfu, 70 miles south of Paotingfu, but contrary to previous reports the Shansi forces still hold the important railway junction of Chentow near Chengtingfu. The northern spokesman said the fall of the latter place was expected hourly.

Operations on the northern front have been delayed unexpectedly by an early heavy snowfall, but fighting has been going on at Tsakowpu, the northerners advancing westward causing the Shansi army to evacuate the important trading city of Kalgan.

Shansi leaders evidently had made elaborate plans to capture Peking, the spokesman said. Apart from the two main armies, two divisions were detailed to advance along mountain roads and cut communications. This plan failed largely because of the rapidity of the northern victory against the main Shansi armies.

Several of these raids have been stopped, notably in the western hills, 20 miles from Peking, where one Shansi regiment was disbanded. A stronger Shansi force took Chochoy, only 38 miles south of Peking, but was driven out by northern troops.

The northern spokesman said similar raids near Peking were expected but that the raiders were unable to keep in contact with one another and were more like bandits than regular troops. The northern alliance, he said, consequently did not regard their movements seriously. Even if certain of these irregulars should appear near the walls of Peking, and firing should be heard in the city, he continued, there would be no cause for fear since the northerners had ample forces to round them up.

Severe fighting has been going on between northern forces and Nationalists in the province of Honan, but reports indicate a slow advance of Shantung northern troops along the Lunghai railway.

A dispatch to the Westminster Gazette from Peking reports that the British intend to reoccupy the British concession at Hankow, which was of Dr. Eugene Chen and Michael turned over to the nationalists March 15, now that the nationalist regime Borodin has vanished.

The taking over by Chinese nationalists of the British concession of Hankow March 15 was regarded to be the first tangible victory of Chinese nationalism in its struggle with the powers. The concession formed a base for British trade in the interior of China and was regarded to be one of the most valuable extraterritorial areas in that country. The British had held it since 1861 and its abandonment was a direct result of anti-foreign violence indulged in last January, when mobs invaded the concession and threatened to kill all foreigners.

MISS MARION TO SING.
At the morning service at the Presbyterian church Miss Helen Marion will sing the prize number she used at the Jackson Eistedfodd, Mendelshon's "Hear Ye, Israel." At the evening service the hymn "Faith of Our Fathers" will be used, illustrated by seven lantern slides.

PELTZER SETS RECORD

Photograph shows Peltzer, German sprint star, winning the special 1,000-meter event from Martin, French track star at Colombes stadium at Paris. Peltzer set a new world's record for the distance, being clocked in 2 minutes 25 1/2 seconds.

SAM PICKFORD FEDERAL RADIO COMMISSIONER

Sam Pickard, Kansas, was appointed by President Coolidge Saturday to be a member of the federal radio commission at Washington.

Pickard will take the post of Henry A. Bellows, whose resignation was announced simultaneously with the new appointment. The post of Colonel John S. Dillon, who died recently remains vacant temporarily.

Eyes of Plants

Of course we know that trees have circulation, not of blood, but sap, that goes upward in the spring and downward in the autumn. It has been demonstrated also that plants have eyes, certain epidermal cells being really convex lenses filled with clear sap that brings the light rays to a focus somewhere within the cells. These little lenses are able to form images just as the eyes of insects do.

Moving Verdun's Unknown Dead to New Ossuary

French troops carrying fifty-two coffins containing remains of unknown soldiers who were killed at Verdun, to the new ossuary beside the remains of Fort Douaumont. The huge stone ossuary can be seen in distance. Thousands of relatives of the fallen and one hundred generals attended the ceremony.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From Wires
By Correspondents of the
United States Press
Association.

Gallipolis—Lawrence Callahan, 30, Middleport, fireman of New York Central passenger train No. 32, was scalded to death today when the flyer collided head-on with fast freight train. Eight passengers were injured and removed to a hospital.

Cincinnati—Heirs of the late Jacob G. Schmidlapp, millionaire capitalist, are entitled to a refund of $312,000 collected by the U. S. government as estate tax, according to a ruling of Smith Hickenlooper, U. S. district judge, on file today. Most of the beneficiaries of the will are charitable institutions.

Cincinnati—L. W. Finley, 83, retired tobacco merchant will be buried at Sarahsville today. He was the father of the late W. L. Finley former chairman of the Democratic state committee.

Toledo—While guests were enjoying refreshments following a bridge game Ralph Wright, 50, insurance agent, walked into another room in his home here and fired a shot gun into his body. He has slight chance of recovery, hospital authorities said. His father, George Wright committed suicide in Cleveland two weeks ago.

Youth, Alone, Keeps 8, With Father in Prison

Frankfort, Ky.—Written between the lines of a petition for executive clemency for Enoch Polly, serving a life sentence in state reformatory here, is the story of a five-year struggle by a youth, now twenty-three years old, to support the family of a father convicted of murder.

In 1922 Enoch Polly was found guilty of slaying Mandy Caudill. When Polly was sent to prison his oldest son, Richard, eighteen, was forced to quit school and go to work in the coal mines of Cornettsville to support his mother, ten brothers and sisters.

Richard, neighbors say, has kept the family well fed and clothed and the children in school. Two years ago the mother died, and since two of the older girls have married.

Still, Richard has quite a little family to take care of—eight children, the oldest thirteen, the youngest six.

Spring floods swept away most of his possessions, but he is "carrying on."

City of Fourth Century Is Found in Moldavia

Odessa, Russia.—Ruins of an ancient Greek city of the Fourth century, B. C., have been discovered near the village of Scurlti in soviet Moldavia. The area thus far explored is said to comprise about 30 acres and contains ruins of houses, black and red painted pottery, Greek vases and other objects.

TRANSATLANTIC FLYERS GIVEN GREAT OVATION

Tremendous Roar of Cheers
Signalled Arrival of Ruth
Elder At Azores.

Ruth Elder, first American woman transatlantic flyer, arrived at Horta, Azores Islands Saturday with George Haldeman, her co-pilot in the plane, "American Girl" aboard the Dutch oil tanker, Barendrecht, that picked them up at sea Thursday.

Miss Elder and Haldeman received the greatest ovation accorded anyone in the history of the Island. Almost the whole town's population was jammed around the dock where they landed.

A tremendous roar of cheers signalled the arrival of the two flyers so miraculously brought here from mid-Atlantic.

Portuguese government authorities and all officers of the municipal government were present to greet them on behalf of the Island, and the entire consular corps was present with the American consul to welcome them on behalf of the island, and the entire consular corps was present with the American consul to welcome them on behalf of the world at large.

NEWS ABOUT COURT HOUSE

General Happenings Taken
From the Records of the
Various County
Offices

Files Suit For Divorce.

Minnie B. Brannan has filed a suit for divorce in probate court from Charles Brannan. They were married in this city June 18, 1905 and have one son. Plaintiff charges the defendant with extreme cruelty and gross neglect and claims he drinks home-brew to excess. She also claims he has not worked since January 1, 1927. The plaintiff asks for a restraining order, against her husband from disposing of any of the real estate. The order was granted by the court. Meeker Terwilliger represents the plaintiff.

First Express Company

The first person to enter the field of transporting articles of merchandise by express carrier was William Frederick Harnden of Boston. He made his first trip from that city to New York on February 23, 1839, having only enough to fill an ordinary valise. In a few months he employed two carriers and extended the service to Philadelphia.

Invisible Searchlight Penetrates Smoke

Washington.—An invisible searchlight, which is claimed to be capable of penetrating fog and rendering naval and military smoke screens useless in warfare, has been invented by a Scotchman named Baird, the Commerce department was advised by a consul, Finley A. Lindbergh.

"Noctovision" is the name given the device, which is said to have a penetrating power sixteen times greater than a beam of ordinary light through fog or smoke.

"MADONNA OF TRAIL"

A. Leinbach, St. Louis sculptor, with his design for a statue that has been accepted by the Daughters of the American Revolution to mark the national old trails across the country. Twelve of these statues, each 18 feet tall, are to be placed in the states of Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Views of the Stars

People in the southern hemisphere see different stars, but there are some constellations which are visible at different times of the year in both hemispheres. If the earth's axis kept always perpendicular to the plane of its orbit none of the northern constellations would ever be seen in the southern hemisphere, but as the axis inclines first one way and then the other, some, or both sets can be seen at different times.

Future Food Supply

Owing to the shortage of imported foodstuffs, the production of foodstuffs locally is being encouraged by the Straits Settlements and the Federated Malay states. Even some of the rubber plantations have been compelled to utilize portions of their acreage for food products. This stimulation of agriculture has created interest in mechanical means to increase production, and a shipment of tractors made recently sold readily.

WASHINGTON TAKES THE HAIR OFF THE TIGERS

To the Tune of 18 to 0—Circleville Has Not Even An Alibi To Offer.

There are no alibis to be offered in the football game here Friday between the Tigers of Circleville high school and Washington C. H., high school, altho the local team received the goose egg in the score of 18 to 0. The Tigers stood up like real players, and held the boys off the white and blue, time after time, for downs and if the weights of the two teams had been more nearly equal, it would have been a different story.

An unfortunate fumble in the early part of the game was the beginning of the first touchdown for Washington, but with all breaks against Circleville, they displayed excellent teamwork in blocking the powerful plunges of their opponents. When they missed them in the front, they carried on, and got in from the rear.

For this defense, Carpenter, McCrady, Grant and Davis, deserve a great deal of credit, in tackling the heavy ball carriers, and on several plays, Goeller and Peters broke thru and spoiled the plans of Washington. Peters displayed as usual, the excellent form of football, for which he is already famous and his kicking was especially commendable, and the long kicks were well followed up.

In some cases, our men were so light, that when tackled, it looked like "swing your partner" or what have you. But the local team blocking and tackling, or the score would have been much worse. In the game, Dumm, of Circleville, was kicked out, but not badly hurt, while Campbell, Washington's tackle had to be carried from the field; in fact their entire team, knew they had been in a football game, and it was a great game. Circleville high blossomed forth with a band which added to the spirit of the crowd. There were more people from Washington than there were from our own city. Laugh that off! And the plucky team deserves all kinds of support from its home town.

FATHER FORCES DAUGHTER INTO A SUICIDE PACT

Columbus—A melancholy father held his 14 year old daughter imprisoned in the bathroom of their house for two hours this morning while he waited for the open gas jets to take them to their doom. He had first forced the weeping child to write a death note bidding their friends good bye. The man is David T. Sells, 38, transferman, who is in a serious condition in Mt. Carmel hospital. He had drank three different kinds of poison before forcing the daughter, Alberta, 14, into the bathroom. The girl was not seriously effected by the fumes. They were discovered by Thomas Worthington business partner of Sells. When he was unable to rouse Sells he went into the house. The bathroom door, unlocked, revealed the strange death pact. The father was standing with his back to the door, semi-conscious. The daughter, in a dazed condition, was sitting on a stool, weeping, a towel over her face. The death note written by the child said: "Daddy made me turn on the gas and kill ourselves. Goodbye, everybody."

Hiking Drummers Busy

Long-distance drumming is a new sport in Belgium, and there is strong competition as to who has the strongest legs and arms. A fifty-year-old Poulet drummer in the Walloon district recently waged that he could march from Fosses to Namur, a total distance of 25 miles, without stopping and without ceasing to beat his drum, except for an hour for luncheon. A tiny drummer, named Robillard, aged fifty-nine, then made a drumming journey from Mons to Ath and back, covering 34 miles in 11 hours. Then a drummer of Maurages stepped the 40 miles to Brussels and return to the beat of the drum. The competitions are popular among workers, especially miners.

Scarfs That Can Be Made at Home

Neckpieces Easy to Stitch; Should Have Shoulder Pompon to Match.

There is a charm and coquetry about those dainty nothings which accompany a woman's costume that rejoice lovers of feminine beauty in the styles now drifting over from Paris.

Chief among novelties for the season of 1927-1928 are new ideas and designs of scarfs and shawls, for fashion decrees that every costume must have its accompanying scarf or shawl.

All summer the printed and hand-painted scarf has floated from feminine shoulders, and Spanish shawls, deeply fringed and richly embroidered, have swathed American figures. These will continue in use, but dictators of the mode, ever alert for something new with which to adorn autumn costumes, have introduced the braid-trimmed scarf and the shoulder pompon to match it, or its trimmings in color.

Handsome and effective as this vogue is, no woman need be without these beautiful accessories to her costume. The veriest tyro with a needle can make her own scarfs for a fraction of what they would cost her in the shops.

Take the new sports scarf, for instance. It is merely a strip of wool material, about six inches in width, intended to loop over one side of the neck. Both ends are finished with braid of one-half an inch or more in width, but the end which hangs in front is adorned with eddy-placed bits of braid, in lengths of several inches, with squares and circles of different colored fancy braids, put on with bold or invisible stitches, or edged with very narrow braid of any desired color. Small ends of fancy braids—some of which come in round designs—can be cut apart for these ornaments, and the whole work may be quickly and cheaply accomplished. The decorator has only to remember that scarfs of this nature demand short lengths, squares and circles of braid, not fancy designs in other shapes. The pompon which matches the chief decorative color in the scarf is merely a big rosette of silk floss. To be quite up-to-date one must have the pompon match the handbag, or its ornament in color. If the handbag has its owner's initials wrought in red and green on one side, then either green or red is duplicated in the scarf braids and two pompons are worn together—one green and the other red. It is also smart to have stockings match the scarf, bag and at least one pompon. If the ground color is in any beige tint, or some hue adapted to the gown worn.

The closing days of this season's vacation time are likely to see girls stitching silver and gold and many colored braids in combination upon three-yard lengths of shining crepe, or adding fringes to shorter lengths of these decorative and useful shoulder and neck draperies for the costumes of autumn and winter.

Materials in vogue for wider scarfs, of about 15 or 16 inches width and three yards in length, including fringe, are silk crepe, thin soft silk and satin.

When purchasing material remember that one length of goods will make two scarfs, with a piece left over with which to line the bag.

Sports Suit of Beige Flannel for Fall Wear

Among the chic outfits offered for the autumn season is the sports suit of beige flannel. The long coat with a double throw at the throat and the bell-shaped sleeves, untrimmed, are smart new notes of the season.

Hairpins Are in Favor as Long Hair Returns

With the return of long tresses, hairpins are coming back, too.

Novelty pins, in the form of large pearls, Spanish ornaments, and tortoiseshell combs are not only being shown, but sold. Because back hair is still lacking in quantity, if not actually planned on, the ornamental pins have to be extremely light in weight.

Wigs are one way of keeping the hair ornaments in place. Many women find them more satisfactory than artificial back hair, which is not easily attached, and forms a precarious basis for valuable ornaments.

WOMAN SPURNS RICHES TO WED

Spurning a $250,000 trust fund established by her divorced husband on condition that she did not marry his brother, Mrs. E. C. Carrington has become Mrs. Campbell Carrington in an Episcopal church ceremony in New York City.

The newlyweds left immediately on a secret honeymoon after the ceremony, which took place Wednesday.

She was married to Colonel E. C. Carrington in 1920, and the colonel subsequently charged his brother with being unduly friendly with her. He met Campbell in front of his wife's apartment one day and administered a public whipping. Then came the divorce.

Confucius Great Sage

The man whose memory has for 2,000 years aroused signal respect and honor in China was a sage, not a saint nor a founder of a religious faith. Confucius took the best of the various Chinese philosophies of his day and formed a cult of his own, using as a basis five cardinal virtues—righteousness, knowledge, sincerity, politeness and discrimination of good. The wisdom of the Chinese Solomon so delighted the people that temples were built in his honor, his wise sayings were widely quoted and came to be taught in the Chinese schools.

White Pearls in Demand
Pearls that come from the coast of Australia are of many shapes and colors. Those under ten grains are sold by the ounce; above that by the grain. Color has a deal to do with the value. The white pearls go mostly to Europe and the yellow ones to India. In Australia an ounce of good white pearls will fetch up to $500, but sometimes realize only a fifth of that amount. The yellow pearls may be rated on an average of about half the value of the white ones.

The first lead pencil manufacturer in the United States was William Monroe of Concord, Mass., who, in 1812, invented a process by which he pulverized and mixed the material and incased it in cedar holders. He was very successful in selling his product and continued the business for a year and a half, when he was obliged to give it up on account of the difficulty in obtaining raw materials. Another pioneer in the industry was Joseph Dixon, who commenced business in 1837.

Oysters
An oyster lays about 60,000,000 eggs a year. If just one oyster were left alone by all and sundry, says Professor Lull, until it had great-grand-children, their shells would make a pile eight times the size of the earth. Fortunately, the infant mortality rate among oysters is very high.

MOTHER AND BABE UNDER BATTLE FIRE

Thrilling Experience at Gettysburg Related.

Denison, Iowa.—To have passed safely through the battle of Gettysburg with her baby less than a week old, although under fire throughout the battle, was the experience of Mrs. Georgia Wade McClellan, ninety-three, of this city, who just died.

Mrs. McClellan, the wife of a Union soldier, lived on East Cemetery hill, Gettysburg, Pa. Her baby, Kenneth, was born on June 26, 1863. Even at the time the child was born Union and Confederate soldiers were mobilizing in that vicinity.

Five days later the firing started. The house was so situated as to be within the Union lines and exposed constantly to Confederate fire. To the Confederates it appeared to be an ideal location for Union snipers; so the house throughout the battle was the target of the Confederates.

Early in the battle a bullet passed through the wall of the house and dropped, spent but still hot, on the pillow on which the mother and her child lay. As the battle progressed the yard was filled with wounded Union soldiers.

Every pane of glass in the house was broken by Confederate bullets. Early the second morning of the battle a Confederate sharpshooter's bullet crashed through a door, buried itself in the heart of Mrs. McClellan's sister, who was baking biscuits for the Union soldiers, and caused her death almost instantly. A huge shrapnel shell lodged in the top of the house splitting open a partition. It failed to explode.

Summoned by Mrs. McClellan's screams, Union soldiers came to the house. Observing the situation, they assisted Mrs. McClellan, her baby, her mother and her mother's small children through the aperture made by the shrapnel shell and into the basement, where they remained until the battle was over.

A monument to Mrs. McClellan's sister, Virginia Wade, who was killed, was erected in 1900 by the Iowa Woman's Relief corps.

Mrs. McClellan's son, who was born just before the battle, now lives in Billings, Mont.

The King's Head

Each succeeding British sovereign "looks the opposite way" to his predecessor on their coinage. This has been observed since the Restoration of Charles I, who expressed a strong desire not to look the same way as Oliver Cromwell. It was in the reign of Charles II that Britannia first appeared on the coinage, the original model being taken from a portrait of beautiful Frances Stewart, Duchess of Richmond.

Power Stored by Dams

The value of dams to power users is illustrated by the fact that the huge Dix river dam in Kentucky stores enough water to generate 25,000,000 kilowatt-hours of electric energy even if there were no more rainfall to replenish the water supply.

Arctic Tern

Although the golden plover makes a longer continuous flight than any other bird, the Arctic tern travels farther, breeding far North. It winters on the edge of the Antarctic continent, 11,000 miles away. Incidentally, it enjoys more hours of sunlight in a year than any other living creature.

Continental Currency

The year 1780 marked the end of the issuing of Continental money. The year 1783 is the last year in which state paper money was issued, and in that year only Pennsylvania, New Jersey and North Carolina issued such currency. The other ten colonies had stopped previous to that year.

13octd2.THE GOVERNOR MAY ASK FOR SENATORSHIP*Candidacy For Fourth Term Would Be Opposed By the Members of Own Party.

Columbus, Ohio, (Special)—Governor Donahey will not be a candidate for nomination, seeking a fourth term in his present office. Neither will he be a candidate for either the presidential or the vice presidential nomination, on the national Democratic ticket.

These statements can be made as definite and on the word of the governor himself. Therefore, it would be useless to deny them, unless the governor cannot be taken as sincere and his honesty is not to be questioned.

He has not given reason for declining another term as governor or fusing a place on the national ticket but they can, by the process of simple reasoning, be assigned.

There is a realization that to seek a fourth term as governor would draw serious opposition in his own party and perhaps lead to defeat, if successful at the primaries. This is a situation he wishes to avoid. With this goes our appreciation of the fact that nationally he is not sufficiently well known, at present, to add strength to the ticket were he to be nominated for either the presidency or the vice presidency. If the Democrats were defeated in the election it might be placed to his having been on the ticket. This is another situation he wishes to avoid.

But the feeling rests strong that if he can serve a term in the United States senate he will acquire such a reputation thruout the country, as a friend of the people, that the presidential nomination will come to him in 1932 and with that safely in his possession he can resign from the senate and enter the campaign far better fortified than would be possible next year. Whatever of fear he would have as a nominee for governor or either president or vice president, in 1928, will not prevail, for the senate. There is an honest belief he can defeat Senator Simeon D. Fess, who will undoubtedly be nominated by the Republicans for another term. That contest will be welcomed.

The governor has at no time declared he will not be a candidate for the senatorship, altho repeatedly saying he would not try for another term of governor or a place on the national Democratic ticket. Therefore it is safe to assume a seat in the United States senate is his ambition and the goal towards which he is aiming.

In a way he has expressed the position he will take in the senate, if successful in securing a seat, by declaring he would represent the people, as a whole, on all public questions affecting their welfare, irrespective of whether it came from the Republicans or the Democrats. This means he would slip the noose of party if it were believed it was attempting to pull him into something not for the best interests of all.

In view of all these conditions the governor may safely be regarded as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the United States senate.

Just as the more thoughtful students of the political map look upon this as pointing the way to the future course of the governor in politics they likewise concede the nomination for governor on the Democratic ticket next year will go to Congressman Martin L. Davey, of Kent, representing the 14th Ohio district in the national house of representatives. He is regarded as so strongly entrenched and held in such high regard by all elements in the party that defeat is impossible. He may, and it would cause no surprise, be nominated without opposition.

The Republicans are facing the situation of a probable half dozen candidates seeking the gubernatorial nomination, with the fear this may lead to some factional division in the party.

There is, however, a heartening and encouraging aspect found in the fact that Chairman Fred W. Warner, of the state central committee, and other leaders, sensing the danger which lurks in this, are devoting themselves to the task of bringing about unity and cementing the forces so a solid front may be pushed against the opposition.

They are presenting the truthful argument that this is normally a Republican state and if the Democrats elect a governor it is because the Republicans themselves have failed in their duty and allowed zeal for a candidate to crowd out the more important factor of zeal to party and principle.

Fortunately the argument is having weight.—George U. Marvin.

FARM BUREAU PARADE.

The Farm Bureau will be comprised of a Boys' and Girls' Club Parade, and a parade prepared by the the Pickaway County Cream association, Pickaway Grain company, Pickaway Livestock association, Automobile Insurance and the Pickaway County Farm Bureau with the board of directors of each of these agencies in line.

The parade will assemble on Mound street and will start at 2:10 p. m., Friday afternoon, October 21st.

The parade will take the following course: North on Court from Mound to Pinkney, west to Scioto, south to Main, east on Main to Pickaway and thence south to Mound and starting point.

Be sure to see this parade. You will enjoy the message it carries.

Plea of not guilty to a charge of embezzling more than $37,000 in county funds was made by Alphonso Beery, former Shelby county treasurer, when arraigned before Common Pleas Judge J. G. Barnes at Sidney. Beery was placed under $10,000 bond and will go on trial October 31.

Beery's arrest, followed three indictments returned by the grand jury after an investigation of his alleged kidnapping and robbery last July and the report of state examiners' who reported irregularities and shortages in his accounts.

The three indictments charged him with embezzling $37,038.25, the amount he alleged was taken from him in July, $1600 and $2500, the latter two shortages in his records. Beery served two terms as county treasurer, the last expiring September 1.

Last July, Beery stated he left his office one morning to deposit county funds in the bank. He declared an automobile intercepted him on the way, men seized and bound him, took him out on a lonely road and robbed him. Later, when two suspects were brought before him, he could not identify them. The grand jury investigated the robbery story.

MILK ALONE NOT A COMPLETE FOOD.

There is a popular belief that milk is a complete food. This has probably come about thru the knowledge that all animals live and thrive on an exclusive milk diet for varying lengths of time after birth.

In experiments with rats now under way at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station, W. E. Krauss, dairy biologist, finds that it is impossible to bring about normal development when an exclusive milk diet is fed from the time of weaning. Growth proceeds at a rapid rate for five or six weeks, and then is followed by a short period of constant or slightly declining weight, after which there is a very rapid loss of weight. Death usually occurs after 11 or 12 weeks.

The paleness of the ears, eyes and tail and the general pale appearance of all the internal organs as revealed by post mortem, suggest anaemia, brought about thru insufficient iron, and not thru a deficiency of vitamins.

Milk is a poor source of iron. Hemoglobin determination made by Dr. Krauss showed a rapid decline in hemoglobin content of the blood as this type of feeding proceeded. When the hemoglobin content fell below 10 per cent of normal death occurred. The rapid growth which occurs during the first few weeks is made possible, it was explained, by the young animals drawing on the iron stored in the liver before birth.

An effort is now being made to find a substance, which when added to an exclusive milk diet will bring about normal growth and reproduction. Up to the present time dehydrated yeast has given the most satisfactory results.

OILY SPRAYS KILL CLUSTER FLIES.

The swarms of cluster flies, which sometimes enter dwellings in the fall of the year and collect in large numbers in attics and unused rooms, may be destroyed by practically any one of the oily fly sprays. It may be necessary, however, to make several applications of the spray during the fall to kill the successive lots of flies as they gain entrance.

This fly somewhat resembles the common house fly, but it is slightly larger. So far as known, according to J. S. Houser, entomologist at the Ohio experiment station, it is not a menace to the health of the family to as great an extent as the house fly.

Altho the cluster fly is known to be of European origin, its breeding habits and seasonal development are not thoroughly understood. It is believed to be for the most part an out-of-door creature and to enter dwellings in the fall for hibernation only.

VEGETABLES

Cash prizes on all kinds of vegetables at Circleville Pumpkin Show. 14octd3.

NEW FRUIT VARIETIES FROM BUD MUTATIONS.

Bud sports or bud mutations of fruits are rare, yet a few of the choice varieties or strains have originated in this way. F. H. Ballou, associate horticulturist of the Ohio experiment station, names the Dark Red Rome Beauty, Red Spy, Red Gravenstein and Dark Red Delicious or Starking apples as examples of bud sports.

A bud sport, Mr. Ballou says, results in a branch that produces fruit different in some particular from that of the rest of the tree upon which the freak branch grows. If the fruit on the sport branch proves superior in some important character to the original variety it may be propagated by budding or grafting in the usual way.

The "sport" varieties named by Mr. Ballou differ from the original varieties in color. A more recent sport of the Grimes Golden has appeared. It differs from the parent variety in size being almost double the size of the Grimes with which orchardists are familiar. In color, texture and flavor this new apple preserves the characteristics of the parent variety.

By far the largest proportion of the varieties of fruits originated as seedlings of unknown parentage. A few have been produced by hand varieties and planting the seeds of pollinating the blossoms of chosen the fruits which developed from these crosses. A still smaller number have originated as bud sports or bud mutations.

FERTILIZERS FOR GREENHOUSE LETTUCE.

"Chemical fertilizers for greenhouse lettuce" is the subject of a bulletin just published by the Ohio experiment station at Wooster.

The author, J. H. Gourley, chief of the horticultural department, states that Ohio has more acres of greenhouse devoted to the production of vegetables than any other state, and that lettuce ranks first among the vegetables grown, often two crops being grown in a season followed by a crop of cucumbers or tomatoes.

In the experiments an annual application of 30 tons of manure per acre produced higher yields than chemical fertilizers alone. Half this amount of manure supplemented with 1,000 pounds of 3-12-4 or similar high grade fertilizer produced maximum commercial crops.

Nitrogen alone did not increase the yield of lettuce. Phosphorous used alone increased the yield over the untreated soil. A complete fertilizer gave larger yields in all cases than any one or two elements used alone.

The results were so satisfactory that Mr. Gourley recommends that a complete fertilizer be used in preparing Wooster silt loam soil for lettuce. The quantity to use will depend upon the soil, but one-half ton applied in the fall for the two crops of lettuce and one-half ton prior to the tomato or cucumber crop usually should be sufficient. In order to avoid a high accumulation of salts in the soil, it is important not to overfertilize, the author states.

Lime also proved beneficial in the tests. An annual application of at least 1,000 pounds per acre seems justified by the results of the experiments.

Not Parental Models

The biological survey says that the males of some shore birds, among which are the Phalaropes, incubate the eggs and care for the young. The cowbird and the coo-coo of Europe lay their eggs in the nests of other birds, neither of the parents hatching them.

FARM BUREAU EXHIBIT.

The Pickaway County Farm Bureau has arranged an exhibit for the Pumpkin Show to acquaint people with the services offered to farm people of this county thru organization. The exhibit will be housed in a tent on East Main street and will be comprised of the following exhibits:

The European Corn Borer, showing the life history of this insect and the damages wrought by it in the infested areas in Ohio and other states.

A Soils exhibit based upon the results of the Soil Testing Clinic, will give a classification of Pickaway soil types. The type of treatment necessary to give most economical results in the average Pickaway county cropping system.

The third exhibit will be a set-up of the various services and the correlation of these services which are offered to Pickaway county folks thru the Farm Bureau organizations.

All visitors to the Pumpkin Show should take the opportunity to visit these exhibits, because a practical application of the messages carried in this exhibit can be made advantageously. 13octd2.

"Lost" Fort in Canada Found After Century

Montreal.—Old Fort Halkett, in the Lizard river country, abandoned almost 100 years ago by the Hudson Bay company, has been rediscovered by Allaire Delzell, a trapper, who has reached Telegraph creek British Columbia, from the river country. In the '80s an attempt was made by an expedition of the geographical survey to find the old post, but without success.

Delzell probably is the first white man to visit the place since the traders abandoned it a century ago. He found an old cabin, built of squared timbers, near a stretch of water called Fish lake by the Indians.

Inside the cabin was a quantity of powder and lead, as well as a number of ancient muskets. Parchment made from caribou skins covered the windows, but Delzell believes that the parchment was provided by the Indians, who apparently make use of the old fort from time to time.

Delzell told of an exciting race between himself and a pack of 26 wolves. He was crossing the ice on Fish lake when he saw the wolves approaching in fan formation. Unarmed, except for a .22 automatic pistol, he was compelled to roost in a tree for several hours until the wolves went in search of easier prey.

GLYPTODON'S SHELL FOUND

In Oklahoma—'Twas Earliest of Armadillos, 'Tis Said.

Norman, Okla., Oct. 13.—Finding a fossil shell of a Glyptodon, largest prehistoric member of the armadillo family, near Frederick, Okla., has proved the mammals followed the retreat of the glaciers to the Arctic circle much farther than previously supposed, Dr. Charles N. Gould, geologist, announced today.

Dr. Gould, director of the State Geological Survey, said the shell was found in what once was the bed of a river, where numerous implements were discovered which were believed to have been made by the first race of people to inhabit this continent.

The geologist said the shell and several bones were fairly well preserved.

Similar shells have been found in Mexico and the southeastern part of the United States, Dr. Gould said. The animals measured as much as 14 feet long and stood six feet high. They were toothless and, scientists believe, lived entirely on vegetation.

Getting Accurate Data on Ocean Temperature

A virtual floating thermometer has been made of the Los Angeles liner Calawali by the University of California, says the Los Angeles Times. In an effort to obtain accurate data about the ocean's temperature for use in studying currents, the university, in co-operation with the Los Angeles Steamship company, has installed a thermograph in the engine room of the ship.

Attached to the intake pipe of the engine is a tube of mercury. The other end is attached to the thermograph. As the sea water is drawn into the intake it flows over this mercury tube, causing the mercury to rise and fall according to the temperature.

A strip of paper ruled for days, hours and minutes automatically records the temperature at all times as the ship plows its way through the Pacific to and from Hawaii.

Heretofore all study of ocean temperatures was made by dipping up buckets of surface water and placing a thermometer therein.

YOUR NEXT CAR AUBURN POWERED BY LYCOMING Beats 45 Fastest Trains

45 Trains
40,000 Miles
65,678 Min.

3 Auburn Stock Cars
42,000 Miles
40,435 Min.

2000 Miles Farther in 25,243 Less Minutes

THE public thinks of such trains as the "Century" and the "Chief" as being fast. They are.

But it requires over 65,600 minutes for 45 of the world's fastest trains, going in all directions from Chicago, to run 40,000 miles. And these trains get MANY fresh engines, at regular intervals, in order to make this remarkable speed.

Contrast this phenomenal performance of three Auburn fully equipped STOCK cars that ran 42,000 miles in less than 40,435 minutes (exact duplicates in every way of the Auburn cars every Auburn dealer has).

Here is an amazing record of performance, endurance and value never before approached, let alone equalled.

No change of engines for these three stock cars. No favoritism, but the hardest kind of driving, continuously, under American Automobile Association official supervision, on the Atlantic City Speedway.

To even RUN 42,000 continuous miles, at much less speed, would be a tremendous tribute to ANY automobile's efficiency and stamina. That is farther mileage and infinitely harder punishment than any three average private owners impose on their cars in a whole year's service.

But no other car has ever survived an official test of this magnitude and distance. Three Auburn cars DID it, at speeds that overwhelmingly break all records.

Not only that, but we KNOW that Auburn cars can go much farther at even FASTER speed.

The purpose of this test was not speed, altho that is sensational and establishes Auburn supreme in this respect.

The real purpose was to prove in the acid test of this proving grounds that Auburn cars ARE better designed, better built, more efficient, and more durable.

In these highly competitive days of extravagant claims, the public is entitled to the unvarnished truth about the relative value of motor cars.

It is what a car DOES and not what its builders SAY that determines VALUE.

Drive an Auburn Straight Eight and if it does not sell itself you will not be asked to buy.

SWORDS OF HEROES PRIZED BY MUSEUM

Discovery of a document nearly one hundred years old has revealed interesting information about an ornate sword that for years has rested in a vault in the Colorado State museum.

The document, now in the possession of the Colorado State Historical society, sets forth that Maj. Donald Frazer, who owned the sword, was the aide-de-camp of Gen. Zebulon M. Pike in the War of 1812, a man whose name is entwined with a thousand memories of American prowess and glory. It tells a story of his devotion to General Pike, and of his obscure death in New York.

It now has brought together the companion swords of these two distinguished officers, to rest, equally honored, in the Colorado museum. How New York ever came to part with the memento of the War of 1812; how it let Major Frazer die in obscurity without military honors after honoring him in his youth, is a mystery to the Colorado historians. The interesting memento has traveled about the country, from New York to the South and from the South to Colorado.—Kansas City Star.

ONCE OVERS

(By J. J. Munday.)

ARE YOU OVER-DRESSED?

In manners and dress you are trying to create a good impression.

You want those whom you meet to admire you as a "good dresser."

The crowd you will attract on account of your clothes and the way you wear them does not amount to much if that is all they look for.

One likes his friends to be well dressed is possible.

There is considerable difference between being well and appropriately dressed and being over-dressed.

To be suitably dressed is worthwhile.

Wearing in an office or on the street, outfits suitable for home or for some social occasion is not only bad taste but it is provincial.

It shows ignorance of what is proper attire.

Women are not the only offenders in this matter.

Some young men are engaged in work that would ruin fine clothes. By dressing too well they cannot give proper effort and attention to their work. They don't know enough to dress for the job.

You can win respect by dressing suitably for the work, time and place you fill.—Copyright 1927, International Feature Service, Inc.

Valuable Fertilizer

"Nitrated peat" is the fertilizer produced by an Italian chemist from explosives containing ammonium nitrate. The explosive is placed in a measured amount of water, which dissolves out the nitrate, and after a short time is decanted as a saturated solution. This is mixed with peat powder and evaporated. The product contains about 43 per cent of ammonium nitrate, and has been shown to have fertilizing value nearly equal to that of sodium nitrate.

Fire as Thermometer

It is said that hunters and explorers in the Far North sometimes determine the approximate temperature by building a fire. If it is 40 or more degrees below zero the fire appears to give off steam instead of smoke.

Sadly Incomplete

A deed dated March 15, 1897, recently recorded on Long Island, conveys "the Valentine farm on the highway leading from Jamaica to Great Plains on the Jericho road turning thence to the highway leading from Little Plains to Rocky Hill, including the buildings, orchards, garden, meadows, commons, seedlings, trees, woods, paths, water and water courses," but gives no other description of the property or any indication of its size, and nobody knows what it is.

Sure-Footed Goral

Among the strange animals that came under the observation of Roy Andrews, who conducted an expedition into further China for the American Museum of Natural History, was the goral, a mountain goat. ## REAL CAVE MAN THRILLS OMAHA

Hermit Who Had Never
or Airplanes.

Omaha, Neb.—Sixty minutes from the Stone age to the Jazz age. That is the gap that separates the primitive world of Henry F. Morris, Nebraska cave man, from the complex world of modern, living, teeming Omaha. It is the gap between the Twentieth century and 10,000 years ago. A short one as minutes go, but infinitely great when measured on the social scale.

On the one hand the intellectual development of centuries; on the other an atavistic reversion to the early, confused and muddled gropings of man as we find him at the dawn of history. Like a visitor from a strange planet, Morris, blinking as much as an owl when out of his element, recently came to Omaha after more than forty years away from civilization. His coming boldly proclaimed how easily can be lost the veneer of social amenities and graces that separate the gentleman of 1926 from his rude, uncultured forebear of the Neolithic age.

Morris, who is now about seventy, was induced to quit his wooded retreat at the solicitation of a newspaper man anxious to parade him from the headlines of his paper. He was first "discovered" several months ago after he had lived away from all contact with the world for more than four decades. He had never heard of the radio, electricity, the automobile, airplanes or any of the other modern devices.

His Cave Is His World.

His cave, also his world and empire, is on the banks of the Platte river, in the solitude of a wild, overgrown and desolate stretch of marshes and wasteland. The hermit of the Platte rarely encounters human beings. When he does they do not see him. His eyes are sharp; his step too light for that.

The hermit's visit to Omaha was his first trip to a city, for even before he quitted civilization he had spent his life in the backwood clearings. The visit was not without thrills, however, and he saw for the first time many of the wonders of the Twentieth century. When he heard the human voice over the radio, "the spirits!" he shrieked. When the lifting music commenced, Morris stood by in awe and wonderment. The only music he had heard in forty years was that of the birds and the wind-blown trees.

But while the hermit enjoyed Omaha, Omaha enjoyed still more the hermit. It is doubtful who was most struck by the peculiar mannerisms of the other—Morris or his hosts. Everywhere the queer, strange individual went large crowds followed him. For the children he was a super-attraction, a colossal side show, and many a tired mother walked block upon block so Willie or Johnny might see the "funny man."

Morris doesn't walk; he shuffles, and it has been years since he has straightened himself to the full length of his six feet two. He walks with a stoop, giving his massive, knotted shoulders a monstrous appearance, which is heightened by long and sinewy arms that dangle to his knees.

Occasionally, to show his prowess, Morris, with the simplicity and naivete of a child, would climb himself on awning bars, do a spread eagle or perform acrobatic antics that a man of thirty or forty cannot begin to attempt. Pop-eyed crowds watched him start to climb a light pole at Sixteenth and Farnam street, Omaha's busiest intersection.

The cave dweller's face is covered with a heavy beard that had been disturbed only occasionally in forty years by a crude, hand-made razor wielded by the hermit himself. Ragged and grimy, it added to his generally unkempt appearance. Small piercing eyes that perpetually blinked in the strong sunlight were deep set beneath high orbital ridges and peered through heavy, overhanging eyebrows. His crowning glory was his hair. A matted, snarled mass it was, closely grown and heavy. Like his eyebrows, it was steel gray of hue and resembled manila hemp much more than human hair.

Out of Place Among Guests.

A tatterdemalion outfit was hung loosely about his gaunt figure. Resembling a scarecrow, Morris easily might have been mistaken for an automaton; but never for the human being that he is. His complete outfit consisted solely of a pair of khaki trousers, of ancient vintage, and a shirt, patched beyond recognition. His trousers were supported by a rope tied about his waist; his shirt was bared at the breast.

Bareheaded, barefooted and barelegged to the knees, Morris was strangely out of place as he mingled with the smartly dressed guests of the fashionable hotel where he was housed during the Omaha visit.

Once upon a time, he confided, he was affluent, as affluence went in the backwoods country; but an unrequited love affair, the ever-haunting vision of a faithless girl who had left him waiting at the altar drove him to renounce forever the superficial life of a world filled with heartaches. Morris will not discuss the "wimmen," and nervously shies away from them.

Arriving in Omaha, Morris was taken to the Fontaine hotel, where luncheon with an actress was awaiting him. As the battery of cameramen began "shooting" flashlights, the hermit, pleading for his life, scampered underneath an adjacent table. It was only after much coaxing, that he resumed his seat. A bewildering array of knives, forks and spoons lay before him on the table. He picked them up and began distributing them at each place only to find an equal amount of silverware in front of each guest. He appeared much relieved when the dining ordeal was finished.

Taken to the city hall he was introduced to Mayor James C. Dahlman, chief executive of Omaha for 21 years. Leaving the city hall, Morris complained of thirst. A teetotaler, he declined the invitation of a reporter to have some beer, but expressed interest when told it was "bootlegged," and was surprised when told of prohibition. He thought, he said, the soft drink parlors he had seen were saloons. At the Omaha Field club, Morris sang a song for the caddies which he said he learned as a child. Translated from his provincial dialect into English, it went:

"I am the son of a bankrupt;
I suppose you heard of the news;
My father failed in business,
And I need a pair of shoe."

Next he was taken to a natatorium where he enjoyed a plunge. Standing on the edge of the tank, the hermit became eager as he watched some high school students in bathing. Without preliminaries, he jumped into the water, clothes and all.

Saw the Movies Twice.

After a return to his hotel, the hermit was taken out to see Omaha by night. The large electric signs excited his curiosity to the breaking point. In fascination, he stood beneath one of the more complex of them for more than fifteen minutes.

Taken to a movie, the excited old fellow sat through two performances before he could be induced to leave. He chuckled loudly at the antics of the comedians, but all the time he kept mumbling that he "could not understand it." He asked why they didn't talk.

Morris' next serious encounter with civilization occurred when he was taken to his room to go to bed. He refused to take off his clothes. After more than an hour he asked a companion, who had volunteered to stay with him, if he could sleep on the floor. Permission granted, Morris climbed out of bed and expressed satisfaction as he lay on the hardwood floor.

Morris does not miss contact with society and prefers to live in solitude. He often talks aloud or sings, he said, when he is alone in the woods. He had little difficulty expressing himself to his hosts.

FINDS ROMANCE IS OUT OF EXPLORING

Amundsen to Devote Time to Lecturing.

Moscow.—Capt. Roald Amundsen, the man who had peeped at the top and bottom of the world, is through.

"The airplane and dirigible have taken the romance out of exploration," he said. "Dog sleds nowadays fly through the air. The good old times when terrific hardships were a pleasure are gone."

"The man who starts north or south in a dog team today feels like a piker. Some 'Byrd' comes along and squeezes a year's trip in one day of twenty-four hours. He packs up a couple of chicken sandwiches, and then is too excited to eat. We in the old days dragged a ton of hard-tack over the ice and were glad to munch every crumb."

Though resolved to spend the rest of his life lecturing amid the luxuries of civilization, Amundsen believes there is much to be done.

The eleven-day train trip across the steppes of Siberia put him in a reflective mood. He waited five days for the weekly express at Vladivostok and it pulled into Moscow three and a half hours late.

"Has anybody started to dig a hole in the ground?" he mused. "Think of the unlimited possibilities of such a venture. We go down a couple of thousand feet and bring up limitless treasures. There must be something or nothing in the 8,000 miles down from New York to China."

Judged by comparative developments up to the present time, Amundsen planned his hopes for future commercial and scientific flying on the dirigible as against the airplane.

With a little greater perfection of maneuvering apparatus, he said he had no doubt but that dirigibles could be anchored over any given spot on the face of the globe while scientists descended by means of rope ladders to make observations on the ground.

MAGICIAN FRYE ENTERTAINS A BIG AUDIENCE

The first of the series of the lecture course under the auspices of the brotherhoods of the churches of this city, was given Friday evening at the high school auditorium.

The audience was entertained from start to finish by the rapid work of the entertainers; William Eugene Frye, magician, and Miss Dio Miles. The latter is not only attractive, but is a finished musician and also possesses a sweet contralto voice.

Professor Frye, did some good tricks. The fishing stunt, disappearance of a loaned watch and rings, created a good deal of interest. His expose of spiritualistic seances was clever work and the sword act and the flag trick were new ones. His work was clever.

Miss Miles is a clever artist. In her musical work on the zylphone, her playing old tunes pleased the audience and she was roundly applauded.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Mrs. Lemuel B. James and guest, Mrs. Curtis Lee, of Carmel, California, and Mrs. Joseph G. Wilder, Miss Adeline Weldon, Mrs. Henry P. Folsom, Mrs. James I. Smith and Miss Nell Weldon were guests of Mrs. Benjamin J. Throop and Mrs. J. Albert Schoedinger at the Hannah Neil Mission party given at the Elks club home Columbus Friday.

Mrs. B. T. Hedges was a gracious hostess to the Presbyterian Missionary society Friday afternoon. A goodly proportion of the members were present and the meeting was unusually interesting. Mrs. Charles Dresbach led the devotions. The roll call was responded to by every member having an item of interest on Alaska, prepared and distributed by Mrs. Glenn Nickerson. Mrs. W. F. Celler gave an up-to-minute talk on current, religious and missionary views. Mrs. D. V. Courtright gave a most interesting talk on "Oriental Religious Rites," telling of contrasting customs and beliefs of the Whirling Dervishes of Tripoli. During the business meeting the society voted to have an all day sewing in the near future for a missionary's family. At the close of the meeting delightful refreshments were served by Mrs. E. F. Anderson, Mrs. G. H. Colville, Miss Clara Southward, Mrs. E. E. Nelson, Mrs. B. T. Hedges and Mrs. Adele Foreman.

Clubs Enough

"I want to get something for my husband. He's a golf player." "Why not get him a new club?" suggested the clerk. "Dear me, no. He belongs to three clubs already."—Detroit Free Press.

What Annoys Jud

Jud Tunkins says that as a rule he wouldn't object so much to seeing a man play a piano if he could keep from watching the expression of his face.
